HOW THE BALLOTS WERE CAST IN THE GREAT BATTLE OF TUESDAY.

NO DANGER OF CHOLERA.

So President Bayles Writes Mayor Hewitt Secretary Bayard Also Sends a Letter. Mayor Hewitt yesterday received letters from ecretary of State Thomas P. Bayard and President Bayles, of the Board of Health, in response to those sent by him asking that the utmost precaution be taken to prevent the spread of choiera. Secretary Bayard wrote:

The President has referred to me your letter of the 5th net., stating the pressure in the port of New York of sases of choicra among passengers from Italy, and ex-pressing apprehension of more such arrivals from Italian pressing apprehension of more such actions are matters of ports.

While the health laws and requisitions are matters of acciusive State and local jurisdiction, yet the President being anxious to lend any aid to sanitation in his power, I have addressed, by his direction, a personal note to the Italian Minister at this capital inviting his aid in procuring increased precausions and vigilance in the inspection of vassels clearing from Italy to the United States, and have sent by cable, suggestions of a like tenor to our Minister at Rome. President Bayles in his letter wrote in part:

As to whether there is any reasonable ground for apprehension that cholers will reach New York I am at present unprepared to any. Under date of Nov. I by William M. Smith, Health Officer of the port, writes me concerning the persons now desaused on Hofman Island,

William M. denish, Health Officer of the port, writes me concerning the persons now detained on Hoffman Island, as follows:

"I beg leave to assure you of my convection that these passengers and their baggage, have been for the past three weeks as free from cholers infection as any that have entered the port during the past year."

But whatever the efficiency of quarantine, the Health Commissioners have considered it their duty to assume that danger to the city sitsed in the last of obligan having been brought to this port. I have great pleasure in asying that the department is at present in excellent saying that the department is at present in excellent shape to handle promptly and effectively any ordinary outbreak of contagious disease. We are so well prepared that as an happen, save an overwhelming outbreak, which we have no reason to appeal.

I sail warranted in advistag you that I de not consider the city at present in danger from cholers, and that we have no reason to appeal that if sportatic cases should contain they recall in any instance pass beyond control. When the reason the prepared that if sportatic cases should control the city, than an epidemic which would perceptibly increase the current mortality.

ANTI-POVERTY WOMEN MEET.

They Listen to an Address on "Organiantion" and to Songs and Recitations.

Hundreds of women found their way to Pythagoras Hall, Canal street, last night. The o was the third weekly meeting arranged by the Anti-Poverty women, and it was as success its predecessors. The large hall was filled with its predecessors. The large hall was filled with women and girls who work for their living. They were, as a rule, well dressed, and even the poorest were neat and clean. The purpose of these meetings is to bring together women and girls who work for their living, and to encourage them to consult as to how they can organize more thoroughly for their own improvement and protection, and how they can gain the same consideration from employers and factory-owners that men have gained by their unions and orders. These meetings are conducted by women and only that sex is admitted, for the reason, as one of the committee said, that those who satend can speak of their condition with greater freedom. The meetings have been a success.

dition with greater freedom. The meetings have been a success.

Last night Dr. Mary Putoam Jacobi read a paper on "Organization," which, although mainly theoretical, showed that she had male some researches and believed in the necessity of labor organizations. A general discussion of the question ensued, and those who were at ready members of labor organizations and kner their history and results gave their experience for the benefit of their sisters. Miss Ella Diet Clymer, one of the Vice-Presidents of Sorosis, recited and Miss Munier sang. Miss Leonore O'Kell presided.

GOSSIP OF THE EXCHANGES.

To-day's official estimate of the cotton crop will

The recent advance in prices has been based upon calculations which place the yield at 6, 250,000 bales. So trustworthy has been the bureau report of late years that great im-portance is attached to it both here and in Europe, and whatever estimate the bureau makes of the grop to-day will be the grop, so far as prices in the immediate future are concerned, whether right or wrong. The advance of the last few days was in anticipation of an unfavorable report from the bureau. The new system of delivering cotton on contract is working very satisfactorily, and the brokers are very well pleased with the new departure. They are also mighty cheerful over the prospect of a season of active speculation in their market. This marked disposition to take a "fiver" in cotton is unusual at this time, and foreshadows, the brokers asy, a speculative boom when the operators at the South get through handling the actual cotton. William Woodward, one of the big guns of the Exchange, was on the floor yesterday alternoon with a large stock of plausible bull arguments which he kindly disseminated among the "boys," Other prominent men also talked confidently of a higher market. crop to-day will be the crop, so far as prices in the . .

One of the newest members of the Stock Exchange is young Fred Rook. He inherited from er, who was for many years a prominent Wall street broker, considerable property, and has an income which makes it quite unnecessary for him to engage in business. But be is not an idler, and prefers a regular occupation and a little hard work. He paid $20,000 for his seat.

Any number of Comptroller-elect Myers's friends went early in the day to that gentleman's New street office to offer their congestulations. But Broker Myers did not come downtown and his friends had to defer their handsbaking. Handsome Richas had to derer their handshaking. Handsome Eddle Schmitt, the defeated candidate for Alderman in the Silk Stocking District, had lots of sympathy in his bereavement. He had around him fully as many friends and adherents in the hour of defeat as if he had come victoriously out of the fight and was holding a levee. His friends aver that the next time they run him for office it will be in a district where ninety-nine voters out of a hundred are not Republicans.

Chewing gum is having a great vogue among the brokers on the floor of the Stock Exchange. It is, however, only one of many boyish things affected by the typical stock-broker.

He Sued for His Sister's Support. William B. Du Bois, a lumber con chant on South street, brought suit against George O. Street in the Court of Common Pleas, before Judge Allen, yesterday, for $1,606, which he had spent in supporting his sister, for whose support Street was alleged to be responsible. The jury gave him $348.76.

May 50, 1872, Mr. Du Bois, father of the plaintiff, gave his daughter, Mary Du Bois, then six years old, to Mr. Street for adoption until she was twenty-one years old. When the girl was eighteen years old Mrs. Street claimed that she was wiful, and threatened to send her out to service. Mr. Du Bois, her brother, then said he would take care of her. She is now over twenty-one years of age, and the $1,006 for which Mr. Du Bois sues includes $1,512 for her board until she was twenty-one years of age.

and the $1,606 for which Mr. Du Bois sucs includes 1,512 for her board until she was twenty-one years old and $259 for dothing.

The desendant claimed that when Mr. Du Bois took the young lady away it was agreed that he should receive $100 a year until she was twenty-one years old, and that he had been paid that amount.

Not That Kind of Skeleton. Dr. Longshore-Potts, after one of her lectures in London, noticed among the people who came upon the stage a middle-aged woman, with curis and glasses, who paused in front of an articulated skel-ton and carefully began to count the ribs. She skel-ton and carefully began to count the ribs. She made the summary, and then a puzzled look came over her face and she began ocuning again.

"Well, my dear woman, what is the matter ?" askeg the lecturer.

"Oh, decior," said the other, in evident confusion, "I was just counting the ribs,"

"I should think that you would know just how many ribs there were."

"Oh, yes; but then you know," and the woman again hesitated and looked confused, "you know," she continued, with a desporate effort, "that one rib was taken from man and"—

"But this is not the man," retorted Dr. Long-shore-Fotts, dryly.

Grant, Here as Elsewhere, Falls Behind the Other Republican Candidates-Coroper Messemer Thinks He Has the Biggest Plurality on the Democratic Local Ticket-Highest and Lowest Records.

The general results of the election, as given in yesterday's Wonte, were not altered by the close calculation of the enormous vote cast. The returns were sent in from the polling-places in a very confusing fashion, and far into last evening the mass of disjointed tables at Police Headquarters was turned over and over by politicians and political errand boys. Some of them twisted the figures into strange showings, while the close districts had the returns calculated and recalculated over and over again. Of course, there is no official return of the election until the Aldermen sit as a Board of Canvassers several weeks bence.

In not a few instances tae results as given in the newspapers were questioned by the candidates. er Messemer went carefully over the returns and made the leading figures for his office stand as ollows: Mescemer, 118, 477; Shes, 61, 299; Meyer, 30, 178. There were many bets made by friends of he Coroner that he would lead his strongest opponent by over 50,000, and the only regret of the ousy Coroner was that it was not a stronger lead.

The following table of grand city totals will enable ready comparisons to be made between the several candidates. Explanations are plenty in the case of every defeated runner, and the figures in letail were carefully scanned in search of proc that there had been trading, right and left, especi ally on the Republican side, and with mark in the case of the vote on District-Attorney.

Firemen Will Get Their Flags Soon. The City Opposes a Broadway L Read.

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR. Its Second Convention to be Held Soon !

Baltimore-Other Labor Notes. The American Federation of Labor will hold its second convention in the new Concordia Concert Hall, in Baltimore, Tuesday, Dec. 12. The Federation has now a membership of about six hundred thousand traces unionists, but not all of the great trades unions are yet represented. The federa-tion admits State trades assemblies or federations and local central labor unions, trade assemblies of councils, and there is expected to be a great gath-councils, and there is expected to be a great gathering of the most experienced men in the labor unions. Samuel Gompers, of No. 522 East Eighth street, this city, is the President.

It now looks as if the New York State Branch of the American Federa.ion of Labor would supersed the State Workingmen's Assembly. The former will be composed exclusively of trades unions and central labor unions, while the latter was made up of trades unions and Enights of Labor assemblies. At the last meeting of the Assembly there was a clash between the representatives of the two forms of organization. The Branch will meet Jan. 17, in Albany. All communications should be addressed to T. F. Boyle, Secretary, No. 182 Varick street, this city.

If, in Aibany. All communications should be addressed to T. F. Boyle, Secretary, No. 122 Various street, this city.

The barbers will form a national union at Gruener's Hotel, Buffalo, Dec. 5. A call to the various journeymen barbers' unions in the United States and Canada has been issued, signed by the presidents or secretaries of the unions in New York City, Muskegon, Mich.; Meriden, Conn.; Toledo, O., and Dalias, Tex. All correspondence ascould be addressed to Edward Finkelstohe, No. 63! Second avenue, this city.

The Hancock Association of Barbers, K. of L., will give a bail at Nilsson Hall, East Fifteenth atreet, Monday, Nov. 14.

Union No. 56, Brotherhood of American Carpenters and Joiners, of Los Angeles, Cal., has sent to the Eastern States "a warning to carpenters and other mechanics" not to come to Southern California, as the labor market is overstocked and many men are idle. They quote the prices of provisions and rent, which exceed those in Eastern Cities.

"Jack" Elliott, who is well known in this city, is the Secretary of the Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators, which has now fifty-even local unions affiliated with it, while others are in process of formation. The Secretary's address is No. 1314 North Fulton street, Baltimore.

THE OLD DIRECTORS ELECTED.

Facts and Figures Gleaned at the Meeting of the Manhattan L Company Yesterday. At the annual meeting of the Manhattan Elevated Railway Company yesterday 80 per cent. of the stock was voted in favor of the re-election of the old Board of Directors, the members of which are Jay Gould, Russell Sage, R. M. Galloway, J. Pierpont Morgan, John H. Hall, Cyrus W. Pield, Samuel Sloan, Sidney Dillon, George J. Gould, Edwin Gould, Chester W. Chapin, Simon Wormser and S. V. White. The directors then wormser and S. V. White. The directors then organized by electing Jay Gould President, H. M. Galloway Vice-President, D. W. McWilliams Scoretary and Tressurer, and Jay Gould, R. M. Galloway, Russell Sage, Sidney Dillon, George J. Gould and John H. Hall Executive Committee.

The annual statement showed that during the year ending Sept. 30, 158,968,232 passengers were carried and that these were distributed among the various lines as follows:

... 158, 963, 232

The report also shows the gross income to have been $5, 102, 602; operating expenses, $4,970,449. leaving a net income of $3,183,312. After deducting $1,554,060 for interest, tax and rentals and $1,550,000 for the dividend of 6 per cent., $18,183 remains as a surplus, a decrease of $51,499 from the surplus of last year. Died in His Broker's Office.

An old grain operator, William Rinde, of No. 51 Sixth avenue, startled the operators in the office of A. R. Hammond, at No. 48 Broadway, yesterday morning by exciaiming to Mr. Hammond, "I am morning by exclaiming to Mr. Hammond, "I am going to die. I have made my last deal. Call in my friends; I want to bli them good-by," and then fell upon the lounge, while his face turned ashy pale. The employees gathered about and endeavored to cheer him, and an ambulance was summoned from Chambers Street Hospital, but before it arrived the man was dead. The remains were removed to Stoltz's undertaking establishment on the Bowery. On his person was found $1,926.52, said to be his entire fortune. Deceased was sixty-two years old, and had been engaged in grain speculations for many years. He was a member of the old Open Board of Bryckers. The only relative that he is known to have is a brother who lives in Philadelphia.

was a Large Attendance Yesterday, and Fair Prices Were Realized.

The auction sale of the art property of Henry Ward Beecher was continued yesterday afternoon. There was a large attendance of both ladies and gentlemen, and the prices given for many of the articles were fairly good. Some of the most valuable pieces, however, trought the lowest figures. A tea service of porcelain, exquisitely decorated with tea roses, brought only $103.50. A small collection of Rockwood pottery was quickly disposed of at rather large prices. An assortment of misor at raiber large prices. An assortment of miscellaneous glassware came next, and then the bronzes, statuettes, furniture, hangings and rugs were put up successively. There was lively competition for the ownership of a large bronze inkstand that formerly was a part of Mr. Beecher's study-table furniture. It was finally knocked down to S. V. White for $100. A wall clock of burnished brass, with enamelled dial, went to W. Hamilton Gloson, the artist, for $1.50. A Turkish swinging lantern of finely wrought iron brought $29. and a parior lamp, with Falence vase and gilt mountings, was sold at $29. $0. Two bronze statestes of Cromwell and Albert Durer went to different purchasers for $102. $0. acc. A terra-cota bust of Gen. Grant, a few inches high, brought $11, and a full-length statuette of Shakespeare, in Parian marbie, was with difficulty sold at the same figure. A Rogers group, entitled "The Fuglitive's Story," and containing figures of Gen. C. White, William Lloyd Garrison and Rev. H. W. Beecher sold for $18.

The two handsomest pieces of furniture—a beautiful tall clock of Amsterdam workmanship in a carved and marquery case and a supert cabinet of teak wood exqualtely carved—were bought by Gen. C. H. Wingste for the Twilight Club. The clock went for $125 and the cabinet for $120. An enormous six-fold Japanese screen went to Jeffreys for $266.

Among the gentlemen present were S. V. White, cellaneous glassware came next, and then the cessful Concert by Pupils of the New York College of Music.

The pupils of the New York College of Music gave their monthly concert at Chickering Hail last night. A large audience, that filled every seat in the building and part of the standing room, enjoyed a performance that reflected great credit both upon the students and the institution. Encores were the order of the evening.

The programme, which was a fairly long one ncluded vocal and instrumental music. The first upon it was Moritz E. Schwartz, who went through with F. Mendelssohn's Grand Prelude in E minor upon the organ in a manner that gave evidence of much tecnnical and artistic ability. He was followed by Mias Le Clair, who sang an aris by Handel. Miss Le Clair, who sang an aris by Handel. Miss Le Clair, who sang an aris by Handel. Miss Le Clair, who sang an aris by Handel. Miss Le Clair, who sang an aris by Handel. Miss Le Clair, who sang an aris by Handel and powerful contraito voice, of which she thoroughly understands the use, and her rendition of the aria was most pleasing. Later in the evening site gave a couple of selections from Hoder and Schuman with even better effect. A second vocalist was Miss Amelie Kayton, also a contraito, Miss Kayton sang selections from Dudley Buck, F. Schubert and V. Hobandi exceedingly well, showing, like Miss Le Clair, natural ability and thorough training. Misses Celia Schiller and Julia Levy played a plano duet from Chopin very pleasingly. The selection was a very difficult one, but the young ladles went through it without a break. Miss Josie Hauser and Miss Alice Hore each played a plano solo with credit.

The entertalment closed with a well-played violin solo by R. W. Scheiner. All of the ladles received handsome flowers in bouquets or baskets. upon it was Moritz E. Schwartz, who went through

HE JUMPED FROM A FERRY-BOAT.

The Apparently Unpremeditated Suicide Charles Fredericks, of Scranton, Pa. Charles Fredericks, aged thirty-nine, of Scranton, Pa,, committed suicide at 7 o'clock last even-ing by jumping from the ferry-boat Southfield, on her trip to this city from Staten Island. Fredericks was accompanied by a friend, an inmate of the Satiors' Snug Harbor, with whom he had been spending the past three days. The Snug Harbor man was having his boots polished. As the boat drew near Liberty Island Fredericzs said to his companion: "Well, good-bye." "Good-by," responded the other who thought it all a jest. An instant later Fredericks had lesped into the water. A boat was lowered, but all efforts to find the body were intile. The Snug Harbor man refused to tell his name, but said he could be found at the institution at any time. Fredericks had, he said, been in a jovial mood during his stay and had neither done nor said anything to indicate that he had a thought of suicide. was accompanied by a friend, an inmate of the Sullivan Held for the Inquest. Daniel Sullivan, who, during a quarrel over a political difference, clubbed Frederick Michael, a carpenter, to death in Herman Roeder's saloon at 816 Washington street, election day, was brought before Coroner Nugent yesterday and committed to the Tombs to await the inquest. The prisoner, a muscular man about fifty years old, said nothing in his defense and did not asom to realize his position. Deputy Coroner Meagher made the autopsy, and found that Michael's Ceath had been caused by a rupture of the intestines, due to the blows he had received. He was a well-built young fellow and apparently in the best of health.
